Products displayed are not actual size and the logos used are for reference only to illustrate branding options. They are the property of their owners and represent no endorsement of this brochure or its content.

Product colours illustrated are matched as closely as the print process will allow and should be considered to be approximate.

Actual product colours can also vary from shipment to shipment and this is beyond our control. Always ask to see a sample to ensure the product colour and the product itself are suitable for the intended colour variations or the product being deemed unsuitable once its delivered.

Wood is a natural resource that provides a unique branding surface. Variances in the grain pattern, colour, and branding finishes are to be expected, making each product unique and highlighting its natural look.

A close-up photograph of a coarse, brown jute fabric. The texture is highly detailed, showing a grid-like weave pattern with visible fibers and some fraying along the edges. The lighting is warm, highlighting the natural color and texture of the material.

JUTE

Jute is a plant fibre that is spun into a coarse thread and woven to make a robust, heavy-duty fabric. It is commonly used for bags to store grain but has more recently become an affordable fabric for shopping bags due to its strength, and stunning natural look. It can also be blended with cotton to produce juco, another popular material due to its strength and smoother branding surface.

The background of the entire image is a dark, textured surface of slate. It features a complex pattern of fine, irregular lines and veins in shades of dark grey and black, creating a natural, organic appearance. The texture is slightly uneven, with some areas appearing more polished than others.

SLATE

A naturally-occurring stone, slate is long lasting, easy to look after and is naturally absorbent, making it a perfect material for coasters and serving boards.
